Headteacher's Notes

Dear parents and carers,

First thing's first...WE ARE A GOOD SCHOOL!

We have been so excited to share the brilliant result of our Ofsted inspection and are so very proud to have achieved a judgement of Good – in all areas. Our children deserve to be in a good school and have staff whom work hard to give them the best start to their education, day in, day out. I am so grateful to our amazing team of staff for all their efforts. Please join me in thanking them for creating such a good place to learn.

I am also grateful to work on behalf of all our wonderful children. They are what makes our school so special. The inspectors could not have been more complimentary about their warm-hearted personalities and their hard-working attitude to learning in all subjects. Well done, children. We are always proud of you!

Nonetheless, we will continue to 'Aim High, Fly High' and are pleased to announce new keyboard lessons and group violin tutoring to our curriculum offer, starting this week. You will see pictures on our Facebook page very soon.

In other school news, our Junior Road Safety Officers and Happiness Heroes met for their first meetings of the spring term. Our Edge Hill University sports students also started this week. They will be offering extra sporting opportunities at lunchtimes and after school.

Lastly, I am happy to see the return of our 'you said, we did' section in this week's newsletter. This follows some recent feedback in the suggestion box. Please see overleaf for details.

Yours sincerely,

Mr Spruce
