Headteacher's Notes

Dear parents and carers,

As always, there have been some fantastic activities and lessons going on.

Our new 'Secret Reader' initiative started this week in our Nursery and Reception classes. A big thank you to Violet's mum for coming in to read 'Narwhal' and 'I love you mummy'. I wonder who will be next week's Secret Reader!

We must say a big thank you to Matthew's dad who also visited the above classes to talk to them about being a police officer. This visit links to our new 'Careers Day' which takes place next Monday. There will be a fantastic programme of parent/family visitors who work in finance, health, education, sales, fashion and design. It promises to be a great day which will inspire our children to Aim High, Fly High!

It was great to see the new Numbots certificates going out to Year 1 this week for fantastic mathematics work. Keep it up!

In Year 5, the children have been busy working with Clonter Opera Theatre to produce their own staging, lighting and backdrops in preparation for their upcoming performance workshop. Their finished products can be seen on our Facebook page.

Lastly, if you haven't already done so, please remember to sign up for a parents evening slot. Additional appointment slips are available in the school office.

Have a great weekend,

Mr Spruce
