NOTES

- Throughout our school, texts have been carefully mapped out to ensure all children receive a balanced reading diet as well as ensuring texts are progressive, year-on-year.
- In Y3-6, in each half-term's reading lessons, children will read a 'main book'. This text will be read in its entirety and will be the predominant text for that half-term.
- In addition to reading the main book, 'supporting texts' will also be used. Usually, the supporting texts will be linked to the 'main book' in some way: by author, theme or another link. The supporting text will not always be read in its entirety; however, children will be encouraged to read these books for pleasure. In some half-terms, non-fiction texts have been mapped out to ensure children read a range of text-types.
